ABOUT

Katie Wright developed a love of music from a young age, but it wasn't until dealing with a diagnosis of a life-threatening condition called Vascular Ehlers-Danlos Syndrome (VEDS) that she started to write her own music. After several hospitalizations and ongoing uncertainty, she released her debut concept album, "Glitter" on August 31, 2025. The album takes the listener through a journey of diagnosis, loss, hospitalization and a deep desire to make positive change for herself and others. Katie wrote this album as a way to process her emotions and find a way back to a place of hope.

Following Glitter, Wright shifts focus to her next album, Cycles, beginning with the powerful single 'DLG' released on April 24, 2026 during Child Abuse Prevention Month. This ukulele-driven track uses deceptively sweet melodies to explore serious themes, underlying the insidious nature of grooming- that to the child being groomed, it feels like love.

Katie is also known for her podcast, Staying Connected, where she interviews people dealing with similar conditions as her own, and for previously directing The VEDS Movement, a division of The Marfan Foundation.
